

Chat Excerpts – Systematic Reviews: Tips, Tricks, and Best Approaches

Leah Boulis, MLIS, Evidence Synthesis Coordinator for the Maritime SPOR SUPPORT Unit

- 2:20 p.m. – Just this week, PRISMA released an update: <http://www.prisma-statement.org/PRISMAStatement/>
- 2:21 p.m. – Is it good practice to have a Prisma diagram in scoping reviews as well?
- 2:28 p.m. – Why do you recommend waiting until you've contributed to writing before asking for contributor credit?
 - 2:28 p.m. – definitely good to talk about co-authorship from the start
 - 2:29 p.m. - It's also dictated by the institution's policies
 - 2:30 p.m. – yes we wouldn't develop and pull a search without authorship at my institution
 - 2:31 p.m. – Journals also may follow authorship guidelines like ICMJE, <http://www.icmje.org/recommendations/browse/roles-and-responsibilities/defining-the-role-of-authors-and-contributors.html>
- 2:31 p.m. – Do you have a minimum amount of time you say taht you need to create a search?
- 2:40 p.m. - I also reference this BMJ article: <https://bmjopen.bmj.com/content/7/2/e012545>, which averaged 67.3 weeks
- 2:49 p.m. - Is there a "listserv" for this community in Atlantic Canada?
 - 2:49 p.m. - <https://library.nshealth.ca/MHLA>
 - 2:50 p.m. - Join MHLA by reaching out! mhla.absm@gmail.com
- 2:51 p.m. – Curious about your thoughts/how you respond to queries about searching a discovery layer vs. subj-specific DBs
- 2:51 p.m. – Are you open to sharing yout template?
- 2:56 p.m. – Just a note that CAUL-CBUA licence Cochrane for every resident of the Atlantic provinces through IP geolocation; you will have access to Cochrane as long as your IP resolves to being in one of the 4 Atlantic provinces, or you authenticate though your university/college/health authority/hospital.
- 2:59 p.m. – I refer people to JAMA Evidence - they have work sheets that are really good
- 2:59 p.m. – Also Duke has some great worksheets
